“Roma George Floyd? A man died in Teplice after police intervention. Police refuse their fault, saying drugs caused the death”

YES

This is fake news. In this article, they use the example of George Floyd. In this instance, this is used as emotional manipulation in order for people to believe what they are saying.

IS THIS FAKE NEWS?

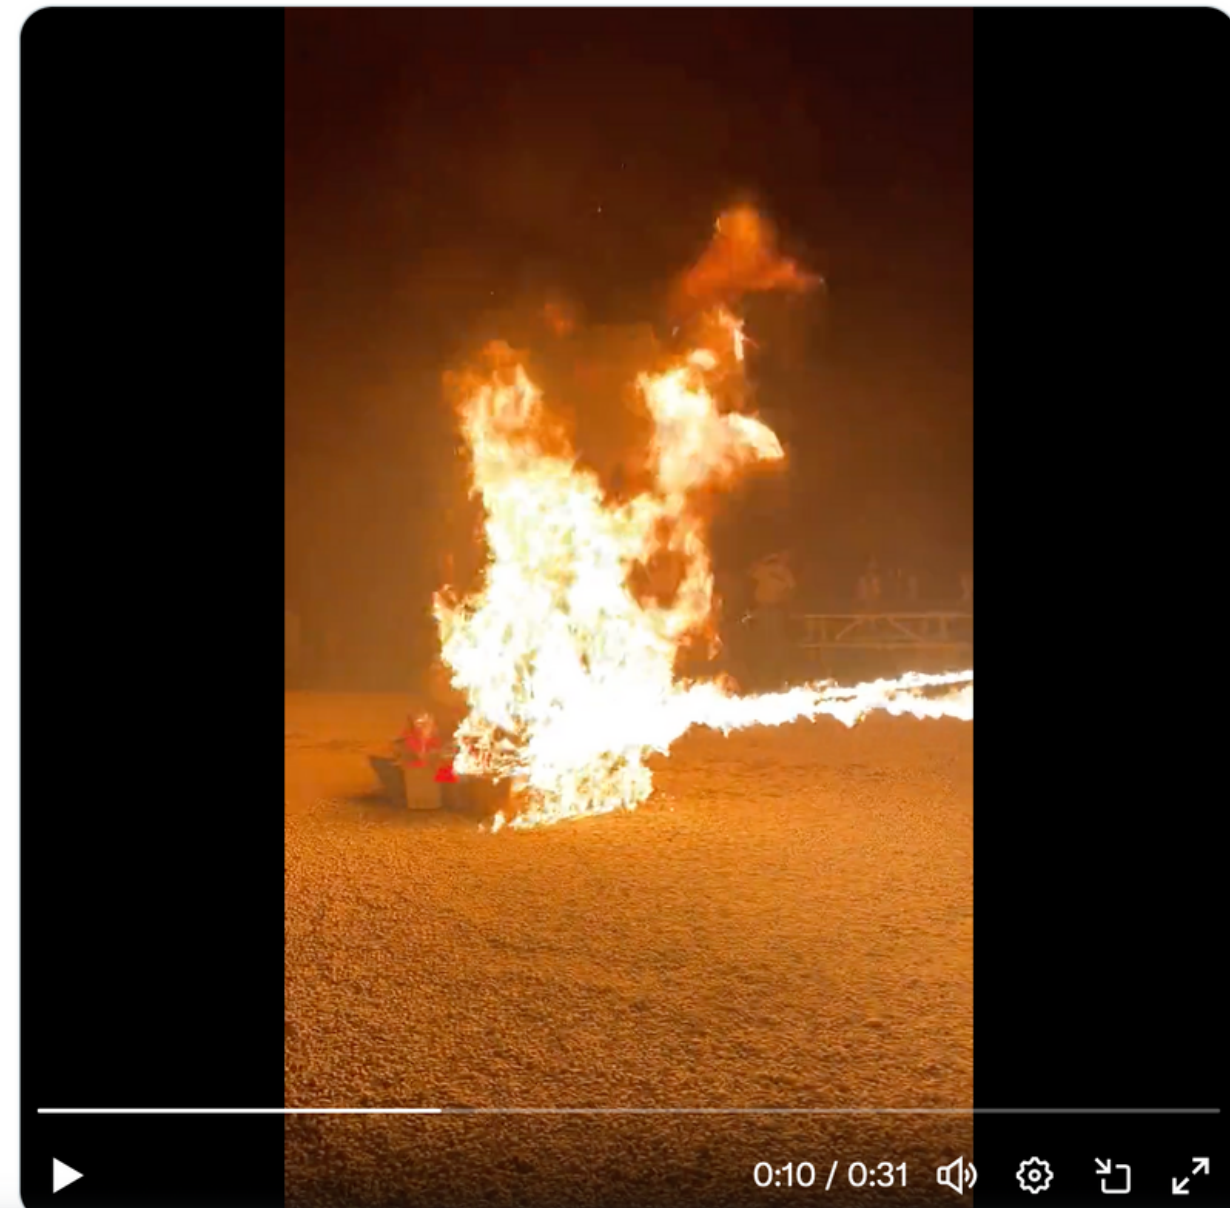

Jonathan Riley
@reaJonRiley

Missouri Republicans at a literal book burning. They think flamethrowers should be legal but history books should be destroyed.

T. J. Trimble, Beijing China

As a former resident of Avon (I now live outside of the U.S.), I feel that I must address Mr. Kraft's concerns of the chemical spraying. (Re: "Vail man suspicious of the sky")

This is a real situation and the public should be alarmed. By simply searching the Internet, a vast amount of information can be obtained on this subject. The U.S. government has a history of more than 10,000 documented cases of testing biological, chemical and nuclear elements on it's own.

This is fake news and a conspiracy theory. When you read this text, you can read that this person doesn't mention any reliable sources. The author just suggests to "search the internet".
